President's Message

Colleagues,

The beginning of the new calendar year is a time for reflection and setting sights on new and exciting things to come. During the past 12 months, we have experienced a change in Administration, policy shifts, and a renewed emphasis on operating with more efficiency, while preparing for uncertain times. The first half of the DC Chapter's program year was filled with opportunities for learning and collaboration. The Chapter welcomed new members and offered education opportunities, many at no-cost to members. We heard from industry thought leaders, shared experiences at networking events, and collaborated on emerging issues impacting the financial community. Specifically, we heard from industry leaders at our Luncheon Speaker Series that exemplify commitment to the DC Chapter and the profession:

- Mark Reger – Deputy Controller of the United States, Office of Management and Budget
- Stephen Goss – Chief Actuary, Social Security Administration
- Terri McKay - Director, DOD Defense Finance and Accounting Service

Our community service focus was the D.C. Child and Family Services Agency, The Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, and Toys for Tots. Together we increased awareness for these outstanding organizations, contributed some well-deserved financial assistance, and proudly gave back to our community. All these events, networking, social and educational, have etched fond memories of an exciting 2017. As we pivot to 2018, the changing dynamics and uncertain operating environment of government will impact mission execution. To prepare for these uncertain times, the Chapter is providing more education, networking and career development opportunities for you - our valued members. In addition to the education opportunities with the Luncheon Speaker Series and audio conferences, this spring the Chapter will host the 17th Annual Federal Financial Management Training titled "Embracing Disruptions to Achieve Positive Outcomes".

To further augment members' professional development, the Chapter will host its 4th Annual Speed Mentoring Program to connect professionals in the government financial management community. Members will also enjoy networking programs, including happy hours, sporting events, and the highly anticipated annual tour of local wineries. The Chapter's community service program will assist middle school students in the Junior Achievement of Greater Washington learn about reality-based financial planning. Community service programs will also showcase the Capital Area Food Bank, St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital and the Avon Walk to End Breast Cancer. The AGA Washington DC Chapter will culminate its program year with the annual DC Chapter Awards Gala at Clyde's of Gallery place with a celebration of the year's achievements. AGA's Washington DC Chapter is here to help provide you the tools to navigate and lead through dynamic times. Our website at AGA.DC.org provides details for these outstanding programs.

Regardless of the time of year, our dedicated Corporate Sponsors support the Chapter's value proposition of providing quality programming to its members; and the Chapter is better served due to the generous support of our sponsors. Many of the programs and events mentioned here would not be possible without their generous support. As you prepare for 2018, commit to actively participate in Chapter programs to demonstrate by example and share with others and take advantage of the full range of opportunities offered.

Background

Government agencies have traditionally focused on their budgets, not accrual accounting. The Anti-Deficiency Act was passed in 1870; accrual accounting was not mandated until 1956 (31 U.S.C. 3512e). When an invoice is accrued or paid, it is important to record the expenditure in a timely manner. Whether the expenditure was expensed or capitalized is of less concern. Overspending one's budget by even a small amount can be prosecuted as a criminal act while under- or over-capitalizing will only result in an audit finding, and then only if it is material.

So it is not surprising that many agencies expense most or all of their expenditures and only afterwards decide if the expenditure should have been capitalized. In some cases, this treatment is necessary because the agency doesn't know if the spending will exceed capitalization thresholds until the year is almost over. In other cases, management may have to determine if the spending will benefit future periods, or there may be legal or contractual issues that need to be resolved before management can determine the proper accounting treatment.

The Standard General Ledger (SGL) Board has given us two models for capitalizing expenses: direct and offset.

Models

The direct model uses entries B402, B134, and G120 to accrue a capital expenditure, e.g.:

Debit	172000	Construction-in-Progress
	310700	Unexpended Appropriations - Used
	480100	Undelivered Orders - Obligations, Unpaid
	880200	Purchases of Property, Plant, and Equipment
Credit	211000	Accounts Payable
	570000	Expended Appropriations
	490100	Delivered Orders - Obligations, Unpaid
	880100	Offset for Purchases of Assets

The offset model starts with a typical accrued expense entry combining entries B402 and B134:

Debit	610000	Operating Expenses/Program Costs
	310700	Unexpended Appropriations - Used
	480100	Undelivered Orders - Obligations, Unpaid
Credit	211000	Accounts Payable
	570000	Expended Appropriations

Inside The Black Box (continued)

Afterwards, the agency determines that some of this expense should have been capitalized, e.g., a fraction of payroll should have gone to construction in progress. The agency would record this capitalization using entry D514 to offset as follows:

Debit 172000	Construction-in-Progress
Credit 661000	Cost Capitalization Offset

Account 661000 is used because it doesn't report trading partner, and neither does 172000. In the direct model, 880200 reports the trading partner and in the offset model, the original posting to 610000 does. There is now a third option, which is to use the new 615000 account for the original accrual as follows:

Debit 615000	Expensed Asset
310700	Unexpended Appropriations - Used
480100	Undelivered Orders - Obligations, Unpaid
880400	Purchases of Assets - Other
Credit 211000	Accounts Payable
570000	Expended Appropriations
490100	Delivered Orders - Obligations, Unpaid
880100	Offset for Purchases of Assets

If the agency later determines that the assets reach the capitalization threshold or are part of a larger project, then they can be capitalized using entry D514 above or with the difference as follows. The difference should only be used in the same year as the original expense or it may cause abnormal balances in accounts 615000 and 880400.

Debit 172000	Construction-in-Progress
880200	Purchases of Property, Plant, and Equipment
Credit 615000	Expensed Asset

Conclusion

If the purchase is from the public (i.e., anyone but a federal agency), then either model can be used because there is no interagency reconciliation. If another agency is involved, then if the seller posts account 510000 Revenue from Goods Sold, then the buyer should use the direct approach (debit the asset or 615000 originally). If the seller posts 520000 Revenue from Services Provided, then the buyer should debit an expense account other than 615000 and capitalize using the offset account 661000.
