- How AGA collects and uses PII.
- With whom AGA may share PII.
- The choices available to you, as a website visitor, regarding the collection, use and sharing of PII.
- The security procedures AGA has in place for PII under our control.

By visiting this website and/or using the website's services, you agree to the terms of this privacy policy. As we update and expand our services, this privacy policy may change. Be sure to check back to this page from time to time. This website, located at www.agacgfm.org/Chapters/Hawaii-Chapter/Home.aspx, including any services and features available on or through the website, such as blogs and user communities, is published and maintained by the association. What is Personally Identifiable Information? PII is any information about an individual that is maintained by an organization. PII includes information that can be used to distinguish or trace an individual's identity, such as name, social security number, date and place of birth, mother's maiden name, or biometric records. It also includes any other information that is linked or linkable to an individual, such as medical, educational, financial and employment information.

PII Collection. AGA does not collect PII from you unless you expressly volunteer the information. This includes instances when you:

- Register for a meeting, become a member, or register for certification.
- Request information (electronically) about AGA's products and services, subscribe to newsletters, or enter a promotional contest.

PII Usage. AGA does not sell, rent, give away or loan any PII about its members and customers to any third party, other than organizations directly connected to AGA, including business partners. Organizations with access to PII are required to protect this information in a manner that is consistent with this privacy policy.

Among other things, we may use your PII to:

- Respond to your requests and inquiries.
- Provide you with services and features offered on or through the website.
- Communicate timely information and special offers (such as in emails, mailings and the like) about products, services, companies and events, sponsored by us and others, that we think might interest you.

We also may share attendee registration information with exhibitors and sponsors of AGA conferences and similar events, which these exhibitors and sponsors may use to promote their products and services.
